

Student Assistant / Studentische Hilfskraft

Web Development for Poverty Reduction

Background: The Capacity Lab is developing the PRAM Knowledge Sharing Network (PRAM KSN), a web based and mobile information and communication service to support agricultural extension work for poverty reduction in Laos.

Field of Work: Website programming and design within the PRAM KSN, Support and maintenance of the Capacity Lab website, support in research experiments Experience: Good knowledge in PHP in HTML is required, experience with Drupal is a plus. You are able to speak and write in English. You are able to work self dependently.

We offer: Work in an ambitious development project within an international research team including our project partners in Macau. We target at 40 hours / month (negotiable) at the usual rates.

More information: www.capacitylab.org

Send your application (English or German), including a short CV, to:

Lutz Frommberger

lutz@informatik.uni-bremen.de

(13.02.2012)